3. Background

Two of the important values of the company include doing business honestly and ethically. The company would like to maintain our reputation for honesty, fairness, respect, responsibility, integrity, trust and sound business judgment. The company will therefore not tolerate any illegal or unethical conduct on the part of officers, directors, employees or affiliates that is not in the company’s best interest. The company will not compromise its principles for short-term advantage. The ethical performance of the company is the sum of the ethics of the persons employed by the company and we are expected to adhere to high standards of personal integrity.

Legislation such as the Financial Advisory and Intermediary Services Act (FAIS) enhances our values by stating that a financial services provider and representative must avoid or, where this is not possible, mitigate any conflict of interest between the financial services provider and a client or the representative and a client.

Any such conflict, other than an “immaterial financial interest” must be disclosed to the client in writing in a complete, exact and comprehensible manner.
“Conflict of interest” is defined as any situation in which a provider or a representative has an actual or potential interest that may, in rendering a financial service to a client, -

(a) influence the objective performance of his, her or its obligations to that client; or
(b) prevent a provider or representative from rendering an unbiased and fair financial service to that client, or from acting in the interests of that client, including, but not limited to –

(i) a financial interest;
(ii) an ownership interest;
(iii) any relationship with a third party.

4. Definitions

“Third party” includes e.g. a product supplier, another financial services provider or their associates.

“Financial interest” means any cash, cash equivalent, voucher, gift, service, advantage, benefit, discount, domestic or foreign travel, hospitality, accommodation, sponsorship, other incentive or valuable consideration, other than –

(a) an ownership interest;
(b) training, that is not exclusively available to a selected group of providers or representatives, on –

(i) products and legal matters relating to those products;
(ii) general financial and industry information;
(iii) specialised technological systems of a third party necessary for the rendering of a financial service; but excluding travel and accommodation associated with that training.

“Immaterial financial interest” means any financial interest with a determinable monetary value, the aggregate of which does not exceed R1 000 in any calendar year from the same third party in that calendar year received by –

(a) a provider who is a sole proprietor; or
(b) a representative for that representative’s direct benefit;
(c) a provider, who for its benefit or that of some or all of its representatives, aggregates the immaterial financial interest paid to its representatives.

“Service provider” is defined as any company/person Kestrel do business with, obtains services from and/or is a licensed financial services and credit provider.

“Associates and related parties” refers to any one related to Kestrel or its directors and senior management by common ownership, voting rights, contractual agreement, equity shareholding, directorship or relationship that can cause conflict of interest.

- Insider trading

  Employees/representatives of the company will often come into contact with, or have possession of, proprietary, confidential or business-sensitive information and must take appropriate steps to assure that such information is strictly safeguarded. This information – whether it is on behalf of our company or any of our clients or affiliates – could include strategic business plans, operating results, marketing strategies, customer lists, personnel records, upcoming acquisitions and divestitures, new investments, and manufacturing costs, processes and methods. Proprietary, confidential and sensitive business information about this company, other companies, individuals and entities should be treated with sensitivity and discretion and only be disseminated on a need-to-know basis.

Misuse of material inside information in connection with trading in the company’s securities can expose an individual to civil liability and penalties. Under current legislation, directors, officers, and employees in possession of material information not available to the public are “insiders.” Spouses, friends, suppliers, brokers, and others outside the company who may have acquired the information directly or indirectly from a director, officer or employee are also “insiders.” The Act prohibits insiders from trading in, or recommending the sale or purchase of, the company’s securities, while such inside information is regarded as “material”, or if it is important enough to influence you or any other person in the purchase or sale of securities of any company with which we do business, which could be affected by the inside information.

The following guidelines should be followed in dealing with inside information:

- Until the material information has been publicly released by the company, an employee must not disclose it to anyone except those within the company whose positions require use of the information.
- Employees must not buy or sell the company’s securities when they have knowledge of material information concerning the company until it has been disclosed to the public and the public has had sufficient time to absorb the information.
• Employees shall not buy or sell shares of another corporation, the value of which is likely to be affected by an action by the company of which the employee is aware and which has not been publicly disclosed.

Employees/representatives will seek to report all information accurately and honestly, and as otherwise required by applicable reporting requirements.

Employees/representatives will refrain from gathering competitor intelligence by illegitimate means and refrain from acting on knowledge which has been gathered in such a manner. The Employees/representatives of the company will seek to avoid exaggerating or disparaging comparisons of the services and competence of their competitors.

Violation of this Code can result in disciplinary action being taken against the person, including possible termination of services. The degree of discipline relates in part to whether there was a voluntary disclosure of any ethical violation and whether or not the violator cooperated in any subsequent investigation.

11. Consequences of non-compliance
The following has been identified by KESTREL as possible consequences of not complying with the policy on impartiality:
• unreliable and inaccurate business submitted,
• financial loss by Kestrel,
• reputational risk of the Company,
• Non-compliance with legislation (FAIS Act),
• a breach in the Code of Conduct by FIA, FSB and
• a loss in credibility of the company.

12. Procedure for managing impartiality and conflict of interest
All employees/representatives including management are required to disclose their involvement or non-involvement or knowledge of association with any financial services provider.

Lesser conflicts
When any staff member of the company suspects a potential conflict of interest, that member shall be obliged to discuss the matter with his/her immediate superior. The content of the discussion as well as any decision made must be minuted. The superior and staff member will accept joint responsibility for the decision taken unless the decision is put forward for ratification to a more senior person in the company. In assessing whether a conflict is material or of a lesser nature, regard must be had to the impact that such a conflict will have on the company’s reputation, financial loss and internal erosion of ethical standards.

All decisions made must be reported on a weekly basis to the CHIEF OPERATIONS OFFICER, by the most senior person involved in that decision.

Material conflicts
Material conflicts must be discussed with the CHIEF OPERATIONS OFFICER before any decision is made. Only the CHIEF OPERATIONS OFFICER or person authorised by him may make the final decision regarding a material conflict.

Management and mitigation
The executive committee of the company will review all conflicts on a quarterly basis and make recommendations regarding steps to avoid a recurrence of those aspects. The CHIEF OPERATIONS OFFICER will accept responsibility for the implementation of all steps necessary. Notice of the attention paid to conflict of interest must be contained in the minutes of the meetings of the executive committee. and the relevant extracts of the minutes must be made available to the company’s compliance officer on request, the purpose of which is to enable the compliance officer to report on compliance with this policy.

Where a conflict is identified and a decision made, the nature of the decision must be communicated to the third party in writing as soon as possible. This applies regardless of whether the decision was made to cease doing business or continue with the business at hand despite the existence of the conflict. It is important for the preservation of the corporate integrity that these disclosures are made at all times.

13. Conflict of interest statement

Each employee/representative shall sign the Conflict of Interest Disclosure Statement annually disclosing any potential conflict of interest and certifying that he or she has read this policy and agrees to abide by it. With respect to Staff, the submission of such signed statement will constitute a condition of continued employment.

Additionally, all regular full and part time employees, and full and pro rata faculty are required to sign the Code of Ethics/Conflict of Interest form certifying that he or she has read the policy and agrees to abide by it. Certification is required on an annual basis and constitutes a condition of continued employment.

Type and basis on which a representative will qualify for a financial interest:
The company has an annual incentive tour for representatives and employees, based upon approval by the Board of Directors and the company’s financial performance. The rules of the competitions are formulised and available for review.
The tour is not based to drive only one product. The company has more than one service provider and is it always the choice of the client to choose his services provider.
Short-term competitions launched are always based on production of policies in general. The rules of the competitions are formulised and available for review.
Remuneration payable is based on the quality of business by deducting cancelled policies to ensure the company complies with quality of the service and not quantity of business.

14. Consequences of non-compliance with the policy

In cases of non-compliance with this policy, the matter will be dealt with in line with the disciplinary code of the company. Measure for avoidance of conflicts of interest and where avoidance is not possible, the reasons therefore and the measures for the mitigation of such conflicts of interest.

15. Staff training and general awareness

All of the company’s staff must be trained on this policy. A copy of the policy must be provided to each staff member at inception of that staff member’s duties and updated versions must be circulated as and when they are updated. Moreover, all of the company’s clients – existing and future, must be made aware of the existence of this policy. The policy must be posted on the company’s website under the section “Internal company policies”. It is the responsibility of the administration manager to ensure that the provisions of this paragraph are adhered to. The policy is available on www.Kestrel.co.za and www.in4sport.co.za.
ANNEXURE A

ANTI-KICKBACK POLICY

Purpose of the policy
To ensure that all employees or representatives act in good faith to ensure maximum benefit to the company and its shareholders.

Who is affected by this policy?
This policy applies to all employees, representatives and contractors of the company.

Policy statements

General prohibition
Kestrel staff, intermediaries, and contractors are prohibited from receiving, soliciting or offering kickbacks or compensation of any kind to and from contractors, applicants, or any other person or individual for the purpose of receiving preferential treatment of any kind.

Conditional selling
The Long and Short Term Insurance Act No. 52 of 1998 prohibits any conditional selling of ANY monetary value. This practice coerces clients into buying policies which they may have otherwise NOT done, and is counter-productive to the business of Kestrel. Strict action will follow ANY conditional selling.

Acceptable monetary value
It is standard business practice for contractors or suppliers to provide benefits to the purchaser of services or products as a way to show their appreciation of such business dealings. Such benefits may come in the form of e.g. free products, food baskets, or tickets for sporting events. These benefits may be accepted by Kestrel employees, provided that the monetary value does not exceed R1000.00 per annum per employee and only if it is declared in the gift register and reported on.

Authorisation to be obtained for higher monetary values
Should the monetary value of benefits exceed the value stated above, all subsequent benefits need to be reported to the HR Manager, who at his sole discretion will decide whether the benefit may or may not be accepted. The HR Manager will maintain a schedule of such benefits that have been declared.

How this policy will be applied
Any person, who becomes aware of a benefit which was received or solicited by a Kestrel employee or contractor, and where procedures in this policy were not followed, may report such activity in terms of the “Incident Response Policy”.

Consequences of non-compliance to policy
- Will be subject to disciplinary action as decided by the HR committee, and will be linked to the severity of the transgression.
- Non-compliance with conditional selling prohibition may lead to contract cancellation and S-rating with the LOA.
